Getting to the UAB

Universitat Autònoma de Barcelona is located outside the city of Barcelona. Please visit the university website to check the best way of getting to UAB for you. We recommend taking Ferrocarrils de la Generalitat de Catalunya (FGC) which provide frequent (every 10-15 mins), punctual and affordable service. You can take a FGC train from either of the three stations in the city: Catalunya, Provença or Gràcia. The lines that go to UAB are S2 (to Sabadell) or S55 (to Universitat Autònoma). The name of the station you have to get off at is Universitat Autònoma.

Getting to the Conference Venue

To get to the conference venue from the railway station, you have to take the main exit in the middle of the station, go downstairs, and then go straight: you will arrive at the square (called "Plaça Cívica") with the restaurant building. On your left there will be a candy shop; turn left, cross the square and continue along the path that goes up the hill behind the square. Halfway up, on your right you will see the building of the "Facultat de Psicologia". This is the building you are looking for. You can enter by the lateral door, turn left, and take the stairs up to get to the Facultat de Lletres. Once at the Facultat de Lletres, turn right, pass the information desk, go all straight down until you arrive at an elevator. Take the stairs to the right of the elevator, go up and follow the signs. There will be plenty of them. You can also ask for the conference at the information desk if you get lost.
